

#3

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of manufacturing a platform comprising the steps of: providing an interconnecting line adhered to first and second regions of a mold; disposing a pin with a tip facing the mold; sealing the pin and interconnecting line with a molding material; curing the molding material; removing the pin from the molding material to form a through hole; and removing the molding material together with the interconnecting line from the mold.